

Imperial Health Charity Privacy statement

Imperial Health Charity is committed to ensuring that your privacy is protected. When we collect personal information about you, we promise to keep this information safe.

In accordance with the Data Protection Act 2018 and the General Data Protection Regulation 2016, this privacy statement sets out how we collect and use personal information and why this is important in enabling us to fulfil our charitable objectives. If you are asked to provide personal information, you can be sure that it will only be used in accordance with this privacy statement.

Imperial Health Charity reserves the right to change this statement and will update the information on this page accordingly. If we change this statement in a way that significantly changes how we use your personal information, we will bring these changes to your attention to the extent reasonably possible.

Contents

1. How do we collect personal information?
2. What personal information do we collect?
3. How do we use personal information?
4. How do we protect personal information?
5. Do we share your personal information?
6. International data transfers
7. Cookies
8. Links to other websites
9. How long do we keep your personal information?
10. How you can control your personal information
11. How to contact us

1. How do we collect personal information?

We may collect, use and store personal information when you contact us to:

- make a donation
- sign up to take part in a fundraising event
- submit a grant application
- request information or publications, such as our Focus magazine
- apply to volunteer
- appoint volunteers to support a hospital team/service.

You may also be asked to provide personal information if you contact us to:

- make an enquiry about becoming a volunteer
- sign up to become a member of the Staff Arts Club.

We may indirectly collect personal information from independent third parties. This may include fundraising platforms, such as JustGiving, or event organisers, such as the Royal Parks Half Marathon.

2. What personal information do we collect?

The personal information we collect about you will depend on how you are involved with the charity's work. This may include your:

- name
- title
- date of birth
- email address
- postal address
- telephone number
- professional organisation, including job title (where relevant).

Where appropriate, you may also be asked to provide information about any health conditions or requirements, and/or the contact details of an emergency contact. For example, when applying to take part in a fundraising event where this information could affect your own safety and the safety of other participants.

If you are submitting an application to become a volunteer, you will be asked to provide further personal information to ensure you are a suitable candidate for taking up a volunteer role within our hospitals. The specific information we will collect is outlined in more detail in our Volunteering Policy.

When applying to volunteer, we will also provide an opportunity for you to disclose equal opportunities data, specifically: ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, gender status and disability. These questions are entirely optional and are only used anonymously to monitor our efforts to be an inclusive organisation.

Certain 'special categories' of personal information such as information about health, ethnicity and sexual orientation, require higher levels of protection. We only collect and use these types of information in specific circumstances where the law allows us to, and where you have given your explicit consent. For example, we may collect 'special categories' of information via our Flexigrant grants platform where this is directly relevant to the assessment of a grant application. In these circumstances, the information that we collect is adequate, relevant and limited, and you can contact us at any time to request that it is removed, although this may affect our ability to progress the grant application.

Please note that we operate CCTV for security purposes in our offices on the first and second floor.

3. How do we use personal information?

We only use your personal information when the law allows us to. Most commonly, we will use it in the following circumstances:

- A. To comply with a legal obligation on us.
- B. Where it is necessary for our legitimate interests (or those of a third party) and your interests and fundamental rights do not override those interests.

Our legitimate interests include, for example, fundraising, pursuing our charitable objectives including by assessing and providing grants, administering volunteering, company administration, ensuring the security of company property and administering our relationships with business partners and suppliers.
- C. To perform a contract we have entered into with you.
- D. (less commonly) Where we need to protect yours or someone else's vital interests.
- E. (less commonly) Where it is needed in the public interest.
- F. (less commonly) Where we obtain your consent – please note you always have the right to withdraw your consent.

We will use your personal information only where there is a clear and legitimate need for us to do so. This includes:

- recording how, when and why you have engaged with us
- processing your donation
- processing your application to volunteer
- supporting your fundraising efforts (e.g. by including Gift Aid claims)
- processing your grant application and/or monitoring the progress of a grant award
- sending you communications about the charity's work and opportunities for you to support us*
- providing any additional information you have requested and directing you to any relevant services
- communicating with you in general
- to satisfy legal obligations which are binding on us
- for the prevention of fraud or misuse of services
- for the establishment, defence and/or enforcement of legal claims where necessary
- investigating and responding to complaints or similar issues.

*We will only send you fundraising and marketing communications by email if you have given us consent to do so. You may update your communications preferences at any time by visiting our website or contacting us using the details at the bottom of this privacy statement.

Depending on the reasons for your involvement with the charity, we may also contact you where there is a legitimate interest for us to do so. For example, if you are a volunteer and we need to make you aware of changes affecting you as a volunteer, such as updates to our Volunteering Policy or new training/compliance requirements.

4. How do we protect personal information?

We are committed to ensuring that the personal information you share with us is secure. In order to prevent unauthorised access or disclosure of this information, we have put in place appropriate security features and procedures. Your personal information is only accessible by members of staff who have received appropriate training and we regularly review our procedures in order to ensure that this information is being used safely and securely.

5. Do we share your personal information?

We will never sell or lease your personal information to any other organisation to use for their own, unless you have given us clear consent or we are permitted by law to do so. However, we may occasionally share your information with trusted service providers who have been authorised to act on our behalf.

If you volunteer with us in one of our hospitals, we will share your name and contact information with the appropriate staff members at the Trust, who will usually be your Volunteer Supervisor(s). If you apply to volunteer with one of our partner charities, your application will be shared with their representatives for the purposes of interviewing you for the role. Upon appointment, we will share your name and contact information with that partner charity for the purpose of day-to-day management in your volunteer role.

Occasionally, volunteers will have the opportunity to complete accredited training/qualifications with us where we will share basic information, including name and date of birth, to an external training body for the purposes of issuing certificates/qualifications. When required by law, we may disclose your personal information to the police or any other appropriate regulatory authority, or where we are under a legal obligation to do so.

We also reserve the right to disclose your personal information:

- in the event that we buy or sell any business or assets, in which case we will disclose your personal information to the prospective buyer or seller or such business or assets;
- if substantially all of our assets are acquired by a third party, personal information held by us may be one of the transferred assets; and
- in connection with any legal proceedings or prospective legal proceedings, in order to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights.

6. International data transfers

Whilst we are based in the UK, your personal information may be transferred outside the UK and the European Economic Area (EEA) to countries which do not have equivalent data protection law and therefore may have lower security protections and fewer rights for individuals. We sometimes use third parties to process personal information where such third parties will store your personal information in a location outside the UK and the EEA.

Where your personal information is transferred, stored, and/or otherwise processed outside the UK or EEA in a country which does not offer an equivalent standard of protection to the UK or EEA, we will take all reasonable steps necessary to ensure that the recipient implements appropriate safeguards designed to protect your personal information. For instance, we will enter into standard contractual clauses (approved by the European Commission) where appropriate.

If you have any questions about the transfer of your personal information, please contact us using the details below.

7. Cookies

We use cookies to help provide you with a more personalised service when you visit our website. Cookies are small files which allow web applications to tailor operations to your needs by collecting information about your preferences.

We use cookies to identify which pages on our website are being used. This helps us to analyse data and improve our website for everyone who visits us online. We only use this information for statistical analysis and the data is subsequently removed.

Overall, cookies help us provide you with a better website by enabling us to monitor which pages you find useful and which you do not. Cookies do not give us access to your computer or any personal information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us. When you first visit our website, you will be asked to give your consent for us to continue using cookies. If you choose not to receive cookies, this may affect your experience of using our website.

8. Links to other websites

Our website may contain links to other websites relevant to our work. We are not responsible for the protection and privacy of any information you provide while visiting these sites, which are not governed in accordance with this privacy statement. We advise that you exercise caution and read carefully the privacy statement of each website you visit.

9. How long do we keep your personal information?

Unless still required in connection with the purpose for which it was collected and/or processed, we will generally remove your personal information from our records six to seven years after your relationship with us ends. However, if before this date: (i) your personal information is no longer required in connection with such purpose(s); (ii) we are no longer lawfully entitled to process it; or (iii) you validly exercise one of your rights of erasure under section 10, we will remove it from our records. If you have any questions about retention periods, you can contact us using the details below.

10. How you can control your personal information

Under the Data Protection Act 2018 and the General Data Protection Regulation 2016, you have the right to:

- Request access to details of personal information we hold about you and a copy of that information. If we are satisfied that you have a legal entitlement to see this information, and we are able to confirm your identity, we will provide you with this information.
- Request that we delete the personal information we hold about you, as far as we are legally required to do so.
- Ask that we correct any personal information that we hold about you which you believe to be inaccurate.
- Object to the processing of your personal information where we: (i) process it on the basis of the legitimate interests ground; (ii) use the personal information for direct marketing; or (iii) use the personal information for statistical purposes.
- Ask for the provision of your personal information in a machine-readable format to either yourself or a third party, provided that the personal information in question has been provided to us by you, and is being processed by us: (i) in reliance on your consent; or (ii) because it is necessary for the performance of a contract to which you are party; and in either instance, we are processing it using automated means.
- Ask for processing of your personal information to be restricted if there is disagreement about its accuracy or legitimate usage.

Please note that you also have the right to lodge a complaint with the Information Commissioner's Office at www.ico.org.uk/concerns. Please always consider raising your concern with us first.

11. How to contact us

If you have any questions about this statement, or would like to ask us to change this information or update your preferences, you are free to do so at any time. Please contact us using the details below.

T: 020 3857 9840

E: info@imperialcharity.org.uk

You can also write to us at the following address: Imperial Health Charity, 178-180 Edgware Road, London, W2 2DS

Registered charity number 1166084

Company limited by guarantee, number 09999900.

This policy was last updated in October 2020.